3. Ongoing Business

A. Council Update - (Councilman Matt Myers)

- Matt reported Council will be reviewing a proposal collaboratively organized by PG&T board member Scott Leslie and Staff member Michael Jones recommending a bike route and signage supporting bicycling between historic Norcross residential areas and Norcross Elementary and Brookhaven Innovation Academy (on Hopewell campus). Myers noted additional route supporting the rest of Norcross' elementary schools will be prioritized once the “Safe Streets Initiative” study is completed.
- Matt also reports the Council is reviewing the development of linear parks along the railroad. After being encouraged to include PG&T in that planning, Myers agreed PG&T would be included in these discussions and review as the project moves forward. Myers also invited PG&T to join “Walk with Council” on September 24, during which Council members would share details about the proposed vision.

B. Tree Preservation Board Update - (Terry Sutton)

- Terry was absent, no report.

C. RFP for Piedmont Pathway Concept Report Update (Michael Jones)

- Michael reported BBC Engineering was awarded the contact for the city's “Piedmont Pathway Feasibility Study”, noting the kick of meeting with the subcontractor was held September 18 and attended by Scott Leslie and Tixie Fowler. Tixie shared the proposed communication and outreach strategies discussed at that meeting, adding that PG&T would play a key part in supporting staff and BBC Engineering in their project development.

D. Subcommittee Projects Planning

- Kassie reported she and Michael Jones have meet to discuss parks programming for 2026; however, no developments that they were ready to share. Kassie added that she has not been able to complete the article about the bike route she and other parents take daily with their kids to and from Brookhaven Innovation Academy (BIA).
- Scott was absent and no report was offered regarding his focus on bike routes inside city limits; however, Matt Myers shared the fact that a Gwinnett County-managed bike route called "Western Gwinnett Bike Way" is in place, noting that its' the name of the multi use path that extends from the corner of Holcomb Bridge and Peachtree Industrial north. No one on PG&T had heard of this route. Myers added that the "missing link" in this county trail is the City of Norcross, as it's not connected inside city limits. Board members agreed to focus on this segment of connectivity as part of PG&T's overall focus on bike route within the City.

- Joe Weber - absent, no report.
- Jon Davis - had not been able to dedicate time towards developing his project concept.
- Tixie Fowler - had not been able to dedicate time towards developing her project concept.
